A SPIDER'S WEB.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER ONE.

On this fateful morning in Joytown a police squad from the anti-narcotics department had netted a big thing and a big story. The lorry slowly approached the road block and the driver obeyed the signal to stop. His documents were confiscated and lorry was led to the station where the cargo was to be inspected sniff here and there resulted to a telling whine from the sniffer dog.

Two pieces of the bars of soap the lorry was ferrying were taken and cut in the middle. A white powdery substance was inside the neatly bar soap packages. Joytown enjoyed sobriety for so long but the drug trade being the new hit song in town had wreaked havoc. The press kept nagging the officer in charge but they were waved off.

The police convoy with the press meandered through the leafy suburb and stopped outside the giant written across the top. A business mogul and one extra deep pocket, a major importer of goods into the country. The operation lasted an hour after which siren sounded as the police snake out of the compound iron gate with the name LORD OTTOMAR

Later on, the police spokesman released a statement confirming the police had lord Ottomar in custody. Lord