SECTION A: MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS (MCQ) – 20 MARKS

Passage for Section A – Hygiene in Kenyan Homes:

Hygiene is important for maintaining good health. In every Kenyan home, families should ensure that drinking water is clean and safe. Hands should be washed before and after meals, and after using the toilet. Kitchens and cooking areas must be kept free from dirt, and food should be stored properly to prevent contamination. Waste materials such as plastic, paper, and food leftovers should be thrown into dustbins or recycled when possible. Personal hygiene, including regular bathing, brushing teeth, and wearing clean clothes, reduces the risk of diseases. Children should be taught these practices at an early age to develop lifelong habits of cleanliness.
