A VILLAGE OF MANY COLOURS

At a place not far from the city,
Lies a village of many colours,
Of a people satisfied and happy,
A place of rest for many travellers.

They've come from far and wide,
From all corners of the nation,
Their ethnicities not in mind,
At peace in their current station.

They remain proud of their cultures,
Their traditional dishes and garments,
Speaking the languages of their mothers,
But in one voice in the streets.
