One day, they planned to go on a journey, and because the journey was long, they needed to carry food. Each of them carried their own food.

They began the journey very early in the morning and travelled until they came to a river as the hyena looked at the other side of the river. Hare hurriedly hid his food and picked a stone. He threw the stone into the river and washed his hands. The hyena saw hare washing his hands and he also proceeded to the river to wash his hands. The Hare then asked the hyena. “You are washing hands. What do you want to eat?” Then the Hyena also asked the Hare the same question.

The Hare replied that he wanted to eat his food. He then got his food and started eating. When the Hyena asked for something to eat, the Hare resisted. The Hyena said, “So you hid your food and deceived me that you had thrown it into the river? The Hyena had to go hungry until they reach where they were going.
