A FREEDOM HIKE

Before dawn, near the foot of Masada Snake Path,
Four adventurers met, bound by one desire,
Four wreckages that needed renewal,
And a long climb was just the remedy,
To prove they were whole, body and soul!

The journey began in earnest,
Each lost in their own thoughts,
"I cannot do it," lamented Purity.
"I have lost my loved ones and life has hit me hard."
"Yes, you can," said her husband,
"For together we can. I am here for you."
The two needed healing, for they had lost much.

The terrain was rough and rocky,
Like my life had been, with abuse and pain,
Abandoned by family, yet I turned a new leaf,
