TASK 2: READING ALOUD

"How does cholera spread?' Wawi asked the doctor. "Cholera is a waterborne disease. When water becomes dirty because of pollution, bacteria spread quickly. Unwashed raw fruits and vegetables might also carry germs. Sometimes, farmers may spread cholera when they use contaminated fertilizers," the doctor exlpained.

"It sounds healthy. Hygiene practices would help keep cholera away." Wawi ex plained.

"Sure," the doctor said. "All of us have a responsibility to keep diseases away. What do you think we can do to keep cholera away?"

"We should wash our hands frequently and clean the environment regularly," Wawi said. "I think we need to get the information to the community as soon as possible. Cholera can kill if it is not treated on time, we don't want an epidemic to break out Cholera con spread like wild firel"
