Grandfather and the snake.

Tamara and Mathew are home today. A sufuria is on the table. Grandfather comes in. Grandfather wants to eat an orange. Tamara gives grandfather an orange. Mathew takes the orange to peel. He peels it using a knife. He gives it to grandfather. Grandfather sits on a sofa. As grandfather opens his mouth to eat the orange a snake dr- -s from the roof onto the floor. Grandfather is old and cannot move fast. Tamara and Mathew run out of the house. They get a stick and give it to grandfather. He kills the snake. They now feel safe. They all ate the oranges.

COMPREHENSION

Taking responsibility

The class teacher was very angry when he entered the classroom. The classroom was very untidy. Desks were not well arranged. There were many pieces of paper on the floor. He wondered why no one had noticed that the classroom needed to be cleaned. "How can you all sit in such a dirty room?" he asked.

Surprisingly, everyone kept quiet. They clearly understood. why the teacher was angry. From that day, they decider) to come up with duty rota. Some were assigned the duty of sweeping, others arranging desks and others to ensure the wall charts and pictures were neat at all times. Nobody was left out. As a result, everything was neat in class. Nothing went wrong at all. The teacher was happy with everybody. He praised all the learners for their sense of responsibility.
