LEARNER'S COPY

A chameleon was walking slowly along a branch when it saw a hungry bird nearby. The chameleon became frightened and quickly moved towards the leaves. It changed its colour and remained still.

"Where did that little creature go?" the bird wondered.

The bird searched the branches but could not see the chameleon. After a few minutes, it flew away. The chameleon slowly came out of hiding and continued its journey.

Later, the chameleon reached a tree where many insects were moving among the leaves. It stretched out its long tongue and caught a grasshopper. It ate the grasshopper and continued looking for more food. As evening approached, the chameleon found a safe branch and settled down to rest.
