Read the following passage and answer questions 1 to 6.

Children's rights are things that the children must have in order for them to grow well and live comfortably. All children have rights that must be respected by all people. Children have a right to education, Proper health care, clothing, shelter and food. Children should also be shown love and affection. They should be listened to and appreciated.

Child abuse is denying children their rights. This can be through forcing them out of school to make them work as house helps, farm helpers, herders or factory workers.

Santoto was a sad girl whose rights were abused. Her parents passed away when she was in Grade Three. She was then forced to live with a relative's family. This family forced her to drop out of school and work as their house help. She used to wake up early at 5 a.m. and prepare breakfast for them. She then did all the house chores and left for the farm. She went back to the house at 5:39 p.m. and then left to fetch water from the well. She went back to the house again to prepare supper. She slept at midnight yet everybody else was asleep. She slept on the cold kitchen floor.

Santoto did not like what she did and would also have wanted to go to school like all her age mates. There are many children like Santoto whose rights are being abused. It is up to you and me to do our part to make sure all children enjoy their rights.
