Zawadi: Good afternoon, Mother. You look as bright as a button today! What has made you so joyful?

Mother: Good afternoon, Zawadi. You have very sharp eyes. What makes you think something special has happened?

Zawadi: You are humming your favorite tune and smiling broadly. It is as clear as day that there is great news.

Mother: You are right, my daughter; as right as rain. I have just received a text message from your aunt who teaches in Mombasa. She has wired some funds through mobile banking.

Zawadi: Hurrah! That is wonderful news. Aunt Brenda has always been very caring and thoughtful. How will you access the money?

Mother: She deposited it directly into my mobile wallet. I will walk to the shopping centre to withdraw a portion of it from the agent. We will buy new school shoes and essential food supplies for the house.

Zawadi: That sounds fantastic, Mother. What will you do with the remaining cash?

Mother: I will leave the balance untouched in my savings account to earn interest and help us in emergencies.

Zawadi: May I please accompany you to the shopping centre this afternoon?

Mother: Of course, Zawadi. Put on your sweater and let us go.
