READING PASSAGE

Grade 6 pupils were going on a trip to Kongoni Game Park. They arrived at school early. Mr. Koko, the class teacher, told them, "Get onto the bus quickly."

They entered the bus, sat down, and the driver started the engine.

Nobody noticed that Mr. Koko had rushed back to his office.

The pupils sang excitedly as the bus travelled along the dusty road leading to the game park.

At the gate, they were received by the game warden.

"Welcome," the warden told them. "Where is your teacher?"

It was then that they realized Mr. Koko had been left at school.

"I thought the teacher was on the bus," said the driver.

"I am sorry, the pupils cannot be allowed into the park without the teacher," the warden explained.

The pupils felt very disappointed. The driver turned the bus to take them back to school.

Just then, they saw a motorbike approaching from a distance. When the motorbike got to the gate, the pupils realized it was their teacher.

They all shouted, "Mr. Koko!"

Mr. Koko talked to the warden, and the pupils were allowed into the park.
